ABOUT THE GAME

Time's Up! - 864 famous people named on the cards in the box. You've got 30 seconds to describe as many as you can to your teammates.

Played over three raucous rounds, with two teams or more, this is a great game for breaking the ice at parties, and the more people playing the better it gets. In Round One you can use whatever tricks and words you like to get your team to shout the correct name out.

The twist is that, in Round Two you can only use one word, and in Round Three no words at all! Score a point for every name that is guessed correctly. The same 40 names, randomly drawn out from the pack of 850+, are used each time.

A great test of general knowledge, mime skills, memory, word-power and nerve. Oh, and it's great fun to play.....

REVIEWS

"Time's Up is a fine game ...and is sure to inspire laughter and silliness. I rank it far superior to the likes of Pictionary and traditional Charades."

- Games, Games, Games Magazine

"I think the brilliant thing about this game is that it is ultimately Charades for people who would never dream of playing Charades. By easing into the pantomime aspect of the game, even the terminally shy will find themselves wildly acting out the clues."
